

Cecil V. Witcher

December 21, 1945 - September 15, 2020

Cecil Venston Witcher was born on December 21, 1945 in Princeton, West Virginia. His childhood was spent in Princeton and Tams, West Virginia, and he graduated from Princeton High School in 1965. Cecil was employed by Virginia Tech University for many years as a cook. He also worked on various construction projects at the University. Cecil was passionate about music and he played guitar and bass guitar professionally with his local band "The Fantastic Six". He also performed throughout the country, frequently traveling to Los Angeles, California hosted by his sister Brenda Banks. He toured briefly with the Doobie Brothers back-up band and The Red Foxx live act in Los Angeles and Las Vegas in the early 1980's. He also recorded 3 record albums.

Cecil died on September 15, 2020 after a long illness. He was preceded in death by his parents Alma Pannell and Cecil V. Witcher, and his two sisters Brenda Pannell and Regelia Banks. He is survived by his son Carlos Anderson, Sr., his brother Adam, and their mother, Natlyn Black; five grandchildren: Diante, Keshawn, Rayshawn, Carlos, Jr. and Dallas; one great grandchild; two nieces Zeratha and Cynthia Banks; one great niece Amber Norman and two great-great nieces Laniyah Johnson and Makayla Forman; cousins Cynthia Pannell Covington, Priscilla Pannell Humphries, Mark Pannell, Sandra Herndon, Vermish and Vermisha Pannell, Maurice Pannell, Haile Pannell, Imani Miles and Latira Myles. Cecil also leaves to mourn his passing several close friends he called brothers, Bubby, Curtis, Bo, Ricky, Walter, and Clyde.

“ Cecil was a good friend. He played bass for me in several gigs around Blacksburg back in "the day". He always had a warm smile, and brought his A game with him. He was as good a friend as was his driving bass line!

The last few years we would run into each other at the grocery store and tell old tales and laugh. It was always a good talk and I would walk away hoping he would get better.

I am so sorry he is gone...I will miss him...I'm worried about Covid 19 and won't make the service but will be with you in my heart.

I'm a better man for knowing Cecil and having him in my life.

I am so blessed to be blessed!
So many distractions in this world
So much to worry me so around
Makes me appreciate all the more
I am so blessed to be blessed!

No one going it alone in life
Living a life of blessing
Just appreciate the wonder of it all
We are so blessed to be blessed!

God loves all of us
And this is my greatest wish
Everyone would just take a look
At how blessed they are to be blessed!
