“ There are some souls who walk this earth and leave behind footprints too deep to ever fade. Cameron was one of them. From the moment we met him, he radiated a kind of light that could brighten even the darkest day. Full of life, overflowing with love, and endlessly kind, Cameron was truly the nicest, most sincere human being we’ve ever known.

He had a heart so big it embraced everyone he met. Whether you were a lifelong friend or a stranger in need, Cameron would be the first to offer a helping hand—or the shirt off his back—without a second thought. His positivity was infectious, his smile unforgettable, and his spirit absolutely irreplaceable.

Cameron became a part of the Spennacchio-Parker family when we moved to Blacksburg back in 2006. From then on, he wasn’t just a friend—he was family. Through the years, he shared in our joys, supported us in tough times, and showed us what unconditional friendship and love truly look like.

We will carry his memory with us always and do our best to live with the same compassion, warmth, and selflessness he showed every single day.

We love you, Cameron. Always.
