“ Coming back to see memories of my grandma or well 'nanny' but she'll always be a grandma to me. I loved her with all my heart and she raised me to the woman I am today. I wished I could've been there more when I could've. I loved her so much I still wish she was here with me today. So many times I wish I can be in her arms and cry my tears away. But I know she's looking over me and many others. I love you grandma I know it's been two years but please be resting well.

“ I met Dixie’s daughter, Sherry, around 30 years ago at a Bible study at Christ Church at Virginia Tech. Sherry was teaching them sign language. I joined the group and a life long friendship began.

I met Dixie at some point when I would give Sherry a ride to or from Belmont Christian Church. Another long friendship was born.

I would like to share the things she talked about through the years and explain what that told me about Dixie to share things I noticed that were very important to her.

She talked about her children. She was always proud of them and would show me photos of them from time to time.

She told me about her grand children and the births of each great grand child. She would beam and her whole being would light up with joy.

She talked about the children she babysat, and looked at them as though they were her own children.

In recent years, especially since COVID, I was involved with Dixie a lot. Doctor appointments, weekly trips to Walmart. I would always tell her, “You have fun.” And she would always give a big smile and say, “ Oh I will!” She would get on the buggy and fly through the store with ease. That was her favorite activity. It brings a smile to my face thinking I had to start leaving her and Sherry at the door because I couldn’t keep up.

I have 2 favorite conversations I want to share that Dixie and I had. She truly believed in angels and that we have a guardian angel. I enjoyed learning that about her.

The other was about believing in God and whether she had been baptized and believed in Christ’s death on the cross to save us. I was so excited to hear her say she believes and was baptized not long after that, she followed up to tell me that she had prayed and had a long talk with God and things right with him.

I know where Dixie is now. The Bible tells us that believers can know that to be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord. I know this comforts me. I know this comforts Sherry. My prayer is that it will comfort each of Dixie's children, grandchildren, great children, and friends.

I also pray that each of you reading will know this kind of comfort and peace that is available to you through Christ, our Lord.

God, please bless Sherry, please bless Dixie's family. Please bless her grand children. May they all know you so they can be together in your holy presence someday. Through Christ I pray. Amen
