“Kit and I were members of a bridge club that existed for many, many years. I loved her delightful attitude and her smiling face. She was definitely a more polished bridge player than most of us, but was patient with all. I marveled at her breadth of knowledge in so many areas and her experiences in world travel. She also was understanding of my life situations and showed me great compassion and often a little advice (that I greatly needed). I will miss her and pray that you can find comfort in the number of friends she made and cultivated who will miss her also.
