“ Hello,

I didn't know your mom but my mom died from a glioblastoma 16 years ago. She lived 53 days from the day of her diagnosis to the day of her death. We thought she might have had a stroke or the beginnings of dementia. Never in a million years did we think she had a brain tumor. Some progress has been made toward curing glioblastomas but not enough to eliminate them altogether. I know you suffered along with your mom. I wish that you never have to experience something like this again. God bless you all.
